Competences and Character

I am a person who likes to work efficient and as precise as possible. Criticism is not a problem for me, it is rather good I get to hear what I can do better in the next situation. I am a person who is loves to learn new things everyday which makes it easier for me to adapt in new work environments. I am for the most part self-taught, even though I am studying software development. My personality is introverted but I am extroverted when I have to.
